

We Believe

- That God (the God of the Bible) is sovereign, even over civil government and that governments ought to obey and uphold His revealed will in the laws governing a society and its conduct.
- That the just and proper role of civil government is, as stated by the Founding Fathers in the Declaration of Independence, to secure and safeguard our God-given, unalienable rights to life, liberty and property.
- That the United States Constitution, as the foundational law of our land, provides a form of government that can accomplish these objectives.
- That the Constitution is to be applied with strict interpretation according to the original intent of its framers.
- That Americans will only remain free if they remain vigilant, well informed and refuse to elect to public office men who through ignorance or complicity subvert these principles.

Constitution Party of Washington

P.O. Box 141015, Spokane Valley, WA 99214

www.constitutionpartyofwa.com

Nation-wide at:

1-800-2-VETO-IRS

We Believe

- That God (the God of the Bible) is sovereign, even over civil government and that governments ought to obey and uphold His revealed will in the laws governing a society and its conduct.
- That the just and proper role of civil government is, as stated by the Founding Fathers in the Declaration of Independence, to secure and safeguard our God-given, unalienable rights to life, liberty and the property.
- That the United States Constitution, as the foundational law of our land, provides a form of government that can accomplish these objectives.
- That the Constitution is to be applied with strict interpretation according to the original intent of its framers.
- That Americans will only remain free if they remain vigilant, well informed and refuse to elect to public office men who through ignorance or complicity subvert these principles.

Constitution Party of Washington

P.O. Box 141015, Spokane Valley, WA 99214

www.constitutionpartyofwa.com

Nation-wide at:

1-800-2-VETO-IRS

We Believe

- That God (the God of the Bible) is sovereign, even over civil government and that governments ought to obey and uphold His revealed will in the laws governing a society and its conduct.
- That the just and proper role of civil government is, as stated by the Founding Fathers in the Declaration of Independence, to secure and safeguard our God-given, unalienable rights to life, liberty and the property.
- That the United States Constitution, as the foundational law of our land, provides a form of government that can accomplish these objectives.
- That the Constitution is to be applied with strict interpretation according to the original intent of its framers.
- That Americans will only remain free if they remain vigilant, well informed and refuse to elect to public office men who through ignorance or complicity subvert these principles.

Constitution Party of Washington

P.O. Box 141015, Spokane Valley, WA 99214

www.constitutionpartyofwa.com

Nation-wide at:

1-800-2-VETO-IRS

They say

“You can't legislate morality”

You no doubt have heard it said that “you can't legislate morality” and that government should not mix religious views in with its law making, but we believe quite the opposite is true. We believe that whether it wants to or not, civil government will legislate a moral standard for society and those moral laws will be based on a religious belief system.

An example of this is the fact that prior to the last 50 years, engaging in homosexual, bisexual, and other deviant sexual acts was not only considered immoral, but was punishable by law in all 50 states. During the past 50 years, under the banner of “you can't legislate morality,” there has been a conscious effort to tear down the laws and morals prohibiting such acts because they were based in religious views, and “we must maintain a separation of church and state.”

However, laws are now being considered and passed in some states authorizing same sex marriage and granting civil rights on the basis of “sexual orientation.” These laws force Christian business owners and landlords (as just two examples) to engage in employment and rental practices that violate their moral and religious beliefs. In other words, we are still legislating moral and religious views, but the pendulum has swung from legislating morality to legislating immorality, from making laws based on Christian religious views to laws based on anti-Christian views.

We believe government unavoidably will legislate a moral code for society based on a religious belief system, whether that religious belief system includes God, or not. The Constitution Party seeks to restore America to a system of morals and laws that again honor God by upholding Biblical values.

They say

“You can't legislate morality”

You no doubt have heard it said that “you can't legislate morality” and that government should not mix religious views in with its law making, but we believe quite the opposite is true. We believe that whether it wants to or not, civil government will legislate a moral standard for society and those moral laws will be based on a religious belief system.

An example of this is the fact that prior to the last 50 years, engaging in homosexual, bisexual, and other deviant sexual acts was not only considered immoral, but was punishable by law in all 50 states. During the past 50 years, under the banner of “you can't legislate morality,” there has been a conscious effort to tear down the laws and morals prohibiting such acts because they were based in religious views, and “we must maintain a separation of church and state.”

However, laws are now being considered and passed in some states authorizing same sex marriage and granting civil rights on the basis of “sexual orientation.” These laws force Christian business owners and landlords (as just two examples) to engage in employment and rental practices that violate their moral and religious beliefs. In other words, we are still legislating moral and religious views, but the pendulum has swung from legislating morality to legislating immorality, from making laws based on Christian religious views to laws based on anti-Christian views.

We believe government unavoidably will legislate a moral code for society based on a religious belief system, whether that religious belief system includes God, or not. The Constitution Party seeks to restore America to a system of morals and laws that again honor God by upholding Biblical values.

They say

“You can't legislate morality”

You no doubt have heard it said that “you can't legislate morality” and that government should not mix religious views in with its law making, but we believe quite the opposite is true. We believe that whether it wants to or not, civil government will legislate a moral standard for society and those moral laws will be based on a religious belief system.

An example of this is the fact that prior to the last 50 years, engaging in homosexual, bisexual, and other deviant sexual acts was not only considered immoral, but was punishable by law in all 50 states. During the past 50 years, under the banner of “you can't legislate morality,” there has been a conscious effort to tear down the laws and morals prohibiting such acts because they were based in religious views, and “we must maintain a separation of church and state.”

However, laws are now being considered and passed in some states authorizing same sex marriage and granting civil rights on the basis of “sexual orientation.” These laws force Christian business owners and landlords (as just two examples) to engage in employment and rental practices that violate their moral and religious beliefs. In other words, we are still legislating moral and religious views, but the pendulum has swung from legislating morality to legislating immorality, from making laws based on Christian religious views to laws based on anti-Christian views.

We believe government unavoidably will legislate a moral code for society based on a religious belief system, whether that religious belief system includes God, or not. The Constitution Party seeks to restore America to a system of morals and laws that again honor God by upholding Biblical values.